LOCAL AND PERSONAL
ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.
The 4th Bi-ennial Convention of the American Lutheran Church in session at St. John's Lutheran Church, San Antonio, Texas, the Rev. A. L. Wolff, pastor, ended its six-day meeting Thursday. On Tuesday 140 officers were named by the convention on its numerous boards and committees. Dr. C. C.
Hein was re-elected to a 6-year term as president of the church. Vice-Presidents according to rank are:
first vice president, Dr. Emmuel Heppen, Columbus, Ohio; second vice president, Rev. O. J. Wilke, Madison, Wis.; third vice president,
Dr. W. E. Schuette, Pa. Prof. E. J.
Braulick, president of Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, was re-elected secretary. The term of these offices is two years. The San Antonio Express contains a complete list of all officers and members of boards.
The convention created the office of Executive Secretary of the Church Building and Parsonage Fund. Special attention was given to the subject of Christian Elementary Education in the Church's Program. Higher education, charities and the Pension Plan were among other matters considered as were Foreign Missions and American Missions.
The convention petitioned the Federal Government to revise the Federal Security Act so as to allow church bodies to come under the Old Age Pension plan. As it is, these are excluded from participating in old age pensions.
The seriousness of the times in which we live and the peculiar problems of the present era make it imperative that the Church and her members have a great responsibility.
It is apparent that our Christianity must be a vital thing, must be real and genuine, as never before.
Distinguished visitors included three bishops from the Lutheran Church in Germany, and Dr. Theile from Australia.
The place of meeting for the next convention has not been determined.

MR. HENRY BURGER KILLED.

Henry Burger died a tragic death about 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, October 13, 1936. The unfortunate man and his son had gone out in a brushy pasture to hunt hogs that had run wild on the range. The two had separated in order to cover more territory, and while separated the younger man heard two shots fired. He heard no more nor did his father rejoin him. After about four hours search, in which neighbors joined, Mr. Burger's dead body was found within a hundred and fifty yards or so of where the young man was when he heard the shots. The body had fallen forward in a crouching position facing down a slope, his gun a few feet in front and below him. A bullet had entered his left shoulder a little towards the back, and ranged downward into the body. Death must have been instantaneous. The presumption is that in attempting to go down the slope he fell forward, that in falling he dropped his gun, and that in its fall the jar fired it when in position for the bullet to strike him.

The remains were brought to the Henger funeral parlor at Hondo and at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon, after a funeral service by Rev. Shan M. Hull, pastor of the Hondo Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Robert Paine of the New Fountain Methodist church, were buried in Oakwood cemetery. There was a large attendance of sorrowing relatives and friends at the funeral.

Henry Burger was born at Bader Settlement on February 11, 1879. He was baptized at Castroville in the St. Louis Church and confirmed April 9, 1893, in St. Louis Church. He was married to Miss Lizette Mumme, a daughter of Louis A. Mumme and Katy Mumme, nee Grosserbacher, on December 30, 1903. There were born to them three sons and two daughters, namely: M. H. Burger, Miss Aileen Burger, S. L. Burger, R. W. Burger, and Miss Clara Bell Burger. The three sons and one daughter, Clara Bell, live near Hondo, while Aileen resides in San Antonio.

Surviving are four brothers: William of Dunlay, Hubert of Tarpley, Anton of Bader Settlement, George of Bader Settlement, and one half-brother, Joe Riff, of Bader Settlement; and four sisters, Mrs. Rose Carle, Mrs. Christian Fuos, Mrs. Emma Tschirhart of Bader Settlement, Miss Angelina Burger of San Antonio.

Mr. Burger was 57 years, eight months and two days of age at the time of his unfortunate tragedy. A life just in its prime has been snuffed out in such a way to bring home to all a realization of the truth that "in the midst of life we are in death". To his shocked and bereaved loved ones the hearts of all go out in deepest sympathy.

MRS. MELOTT DIES HERE.

Mrs. E. E. Melott of Black Creek, 41, who was reported last week as dangerously ill in the Medina Hospital, died Thursday night. She leaves her husband and three children. Funeral was held at Black Creek the next day, Rev. Louis R. Cokerham of Devine conducting the services.

This was a peculiarly sad case, the woman having but recently lost a new-born babe while seriously ill herself with cancer.

The Devine Post American Legion and other charitable people interested themselves in the case, but she was past recovery when help came.

DIED IN SAN ANTONIO.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hilda Rice, who died early Wednesday at a San Antonio hospital, were held at 10 A. M. Thursday from the Porter Loring chapel in San Antonio. Interment was in Mission Burial Park. She was a native of Castroville and had lived in San Antonio at 615 Blanco Road.

Surviving are her husband, E. R. Rice; daughter, Helen Louise Rice; son, E. R. Rice; mother, Mrs. H. C. Heilig, and sisters, Misses Irma R. Heilig and Linda Heilig, all of San Antonio.

DEATH ON THE RACE TRACK.

Death rode the race track at the auto races last Sunday afternoon and Arthur Partin of San Antonio died instantly when one of the cars in which he was riding as a mechanic became lost in a cloud of dust and failed to take the upper turn properly. The car ran off the roadway and crashed into the fence along the track.

Partin was a young man and leaves a wife and one child, according to information available. His remains were prepared for burial at the Henger undertaking parlors here, and on Monday taken to San Antonio for burial on Tuesday.

The race in which the unfortunate man lost his life was a match between two Chevrolets and two Ford V-8's. The car belonged to Kingsley Haralson and was being driven by Eddie Byers of Austin. The car was badly wrecked. Byers, 1933 winner of the Laredo-Monterrey international road race, and veteran stock car pilot of Texas dirt tracks, also suffered injuries as his car turned over on him, crushing his hand. He was able to extricate himself from the wreckage and walked down the track to the judges' stand to report Partin's death to the officials.

We understand the race was called off following the tragedy.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR NOV. 11TH CELEBRATION.

Plans are rapidly being completed for Hondo's observance of Armistice Day. A meeting of those interested was held Wednesday.

The program calls for about the same features as last year, public speaking, calf and goat roping, races, contests, and an agricultural and live stock exhibit by the F. F. A. boys of the high school. There will be no free barbecue this year but members of St. John's Catholic Church have agreed to serve dinner on the grounds at a nominal cost.

There is still much to be done to make this a big success and more people of this community should take an interest in this event. Another meeting will be held at the Hondo Lumber Co. office next Wednesday night at 7:45. Everyone is invited to attend. Your help and advice are needed.

TED DAWSON ELECTED TO HONOR COUNCIL.

Ted Dawson of Hondo, student at Schreiner institute, Kerrville, was honored by his classmates by being elected to the school Honor Council at a recent session. Membership in the council is a coveted honor and carries with it certain privileges.

The Honor Council is an organization which represents the student body in its affairs with the faculty and investigates any irregularities that may arise from time to time in the dormitories. Dawson, a resident of the North Barracks, was elected to represent that area and the cottages.

Besides being a member of the council, Dawson is one of the outstanding football players, being one of the returning lettermen.

LADIES' BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. J. M. Finger was hostess to the Ladies' Bridge Club and several guests at her home on Thursday afternoon of last week. Prizes for auction were awarded Mrs. L. J. Brucks for members and Mrs. Roy Hunter for guests. The hostess served a refreshing lunch of sandwiches, salad, and coffee to the following: Mesdames L. J. Brucks, Ed. Cameron, W. O. Rothe, L. E. Heath, Robert Kollman, O. B. Taylor, F. H. Schweers, Roy Hunter, A. H. Schweers, Volney Boon, and Miss Thelma Wilson.

ARMY HORSES SHIPPED.

The buyers for cavalry remounts here last week found only six horses in Hondo that met specifications and were for sale. After combing the entire section, however, they made up a two-car lot shipment of forty head out of Hondo Sunday. The horses were sent to the cavalry post at Fort Reno, Oklahoma.

BRIDE-ELECT HONORED.

Thursday afternoon, October 8th, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin F. Schweers was the scene of a beautifully appointed miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Erna Wiemers, a bride-to-be of the early fall. The hostesses were Mrs. Albert Reus, Mrs. John H. Wiemers, Mrs. Frank Boehle, Mrs. Theo. G. Wiemers, and Mrs. Marvin F. Schweers, assisted by Mrs. Henry Faelser.

Miss Frances Wiemers presided over the bride's book, a lovely hand-painted creation. To the strains of "You Wonderful One", the honoree, attractively attired in a tailored frock of rust crepe made with a peplum, and accessories in black, entered the room preceded by the little Misses Imogene Wiemers and Mary Ann Boehle, dressed in rust and green respectively. The bride-to-be found her place in a chair of green and rust placed before a background of streamers in rust and green, the chosen colors. The floral decorations for the occasion consisted of Spanish palms and regina corona in floor baskets and low bowls.

The following toast was composed and read by Miss Florence Grell.

TO ERNA
As we all gather today to greet you
With best wishes and advice for your future,
If on sunny days dark clouds should mar your skies
Just paint the clouds with sunshine
And rainbows will be yours.
A bride you are soon to be,
A voyage you're going to take
In love's golden ship on life's rolling sea!
The mop and broom are to clean the floors
And not to chase Oscar if he fails to do the chores.
We hope that you will always be your hubby's loving wife.
We hope that health and wealth will scurry to your side
And forever with you abide.

Little Charles Schweers, Jr., then presented the honoree with a tiny rake with which she was asked to uncover a miniature hay-stack beneath which were found many beautiful gifts, carefully concealed. After the gifts had been admired by the many guests, the honoree in her own way thanked her friends for the many useful gifts.

Refreshments consisting of chicken sandwiches, coconut cake, chocolate cookies, mints, and iced tea were served to about one hundred guests.

GRELL-WIEMERS.

The marriage of Miss Erna Wiemers, youngest daughter of Mr. D. W. Wiemers and the late Mrs. Wiemers, to Mr. Oscar Grell, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Grell, was solemnized Saturday afternoon, October 10, 1936, at the home of the bride's father, Rev. Robert Paine of the New Fountain Methodist Church performed the ceremony.

The marriage lines were read before a background of ferns and potted plants placed before the mantel in the living room. Vari-colored autumnal flowers decorated the rooms.

The bride wore a suit of navy blue wool trimmed with grey fur. Her accessories were of grey, and her corsage was fashioned of gardenias.

The ceremony was followed by an informal reception for the immediate families. The table had for its centerpiece the bride's cake, a white confection embossed in pink sugar spun roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Grell left later in the afternoon on an unannounced wedding trip, and upon their return will make their home with the bride's father near Hondo.

The bride and groom are highly esteemed young people of this community and have many friends who wish them great happiness in their wedded life.

BALLOTS VS. BULLETS.

By Clayton Rand.

Political issues of less consequence than those at stake in America might be settled in Russia, Italy, Germany or Spain with bullets.

We Americans may be a lynching, lawless lot compared to these older civilizations but we have learned that ballots are about as deadly as bullets.

Politically speaking we turn the nation upside down once in a while, but with little bloodshed.

And when the scrap is all over we stack away our pop-guns and stink bombs for a breathing spell. Among all the checks and balances our forefathers provided for constitutional government, political parties, with a constant eye upon each other, serve a wholesome purpose.

Perhaps after all BALLOTS is the reason why America is still the best country in the world.

AFTER FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

The official ending of Fire Prevention Week—which was observed between October 4th and 10th this year—should certainly not bring an end to the public interest and enthusiasm the Week created.

We should regard the Week not as a seven-day matter, but as a fit starting point for a personal campaign, participated in by every citizen, that will run the 365 days of the year. Only if that is done can the Week produce real and permanent good results.

In a number of past years, fire loss has dropped sharply during the Week and for a short period thereafter. Then it has risen again to the "regular" level. In other words, we applied the lessons learned when they were fresh in our minds—but forgot them almost as soon as New Year's Resolutions. So long as that situation continues, our national fire loss will remain at disgracefully high levels.

Every property-owner can easily carry on a year-round campaign against fire. At regular intervals he should inspect his heating plant and electrical wiring. He should not permit the accumulation of old newspapers, clothes and general debris. He should pay constant attention to the storage of inflammable liquids, paints, varnishes and similar articles which present a fire hazard. In case he does some building or rebuilding, he should personally make certain that a high standard of fire-resistant construction is attained.

There is certainly nothing difficult about such a program. It takes little time and costs next to nothing in money. And it may save your home and your life.

A household motto should read: "Repeat every week as Fire Prevention Week.—Industrial News Review."

YOUR $4,900,000,000 PAYROLL.

Everyone is an employer. You and your neighbor contribute to the payroll of the largest group of workers in this country.

That group consists of government employees. Three million of them are on the payrolls of Federal, state and local governments—payrolls that can be met only by taxes taken from your earnings. Their salaries total more than $4,000,000,000 a year. And their number is constantly increasing.

Some of those employees of yours are necessary. They carry on governmental functions that perform legitimate services for you and all other citizens.

Many of them are unnecessary. They are not only a financial burden, but they circumscribe your liberties. They perform services for some small, special group at the expense of everyone else. They work in bureaus that have nothing whatever to do with the business of governing—bureaus that compete with and damage productive private business, and while devouring tax money, stifle the sources of taxation.

It is a sad but true fact that once a new bureau is started, it is almost never abolished. The need that created it may pass—but the bureau remains. Usually it grows in size and cost and political power. Our political masters want as many officeholders as possible—that is the way they maintain their power. It's about time we insisted that the

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Lewis Doesn't See Peace in Federation of Labor—Russia Resents Fascist Aid Given Spanish Rebels—Mormons All Off Dole.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD © Western Newspaper Union.

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the A. F. of L., who had just been calling on President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., told the newspapermen that the prospects for peace between the warring factions in the federation were better and that those participating in the controversy were becoming "more temperate." However, that same evening John L. Lewis, the dynamic leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, rather dashed the aforesaid prospects for peace. In Washington he laid down, as the only basis for restoration of peace in the ranks of organized labor, a program consisting of these two propositions:

1. Revocation by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor of the order suspending ten C. I. O. unions on charges of insurrection.

2. Isolation of certain mass production industries which would be organized strictly on Lewis' "one big union" theory.

It had been stated that David Dubinsky, head of one of the suspended unions, had submitted a compromise peace proposal, but Lewis told the correspondents that he knew of no change in feeling between the battling factions; that he had made no move for peace and contemplated none; that the C. I. O. drive to unionize the steel industry was "proceeding satisfactorily" and that the Dubinsky proposal was similar to the one previously offered to and rejected by the A. F. of L. council.

POLITICAL expediency brought about a strange state of affairs in Minnesota. Fred Curtis and Patrick J. Delaney, respectively Democratic gubernatorial and senatorial nominees, withdrew from the race in favor of the Farmer-Labor candidates in return for Farmer-Labor support for the re-election of President Roosevelt. The members of the Democratic party throughout the state were rather dismayed by this action and some of the leaders protested vigorously.

John E. Regan, the party's 1934 gubernatorial candidate, issued a statement asserting that Minnesota Democrats had traded votes and engineered "coalition of parties" before, but "never has there been an absolute sellout."

Albie Anderson, St. Paul attorney who was the Democratic candidate for attorney-general two years ago, marshaled his followers into the "Democrats-for-Nelson Club." Martin A. Nelson is the Republican gubernatorial candidate.

Joseph Wolf, former national committeeman, and Judge J. D. F. Meighen, state central committee chairman, led that group of Democrats supporting both Farmer-Labor candidates and President Roosevelt.

ATTACKING abuse of the franking privilege, which has been practiced by followers of any and all parties when they got the chance, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan proposes that congress pass legislation that will put a stop to this evil, "for the sake upon the one hand of the postal revenue and for the sake, on the other, of political fair play."

When John G. Winant resigned from the social security board, his letter to the President was a strong pro-New Deal document. It was printed by the press bureau of the social security board and franked to a large mailing list, and Senator Vandenberg asked Mr. Winant whether he thought that was a legitimate use of the franking privilege. Mr. Winant replied promptly that, lest there be any question of the propriety of the matter, he had paid the mailing costs. This attitude was warmly commended by Senator Vandenberg, as it must be by all good citizens.

HELP given the Spanish insurgents by Fascist countries so enraged soviet Russia that she gave notice that, unless it ceased she would free herself from any obligations to the agreement for neutrality. The representatives of the 27 nations on the international committee of non-intervention in the Spanish war were about to meet in London, and Moscow's challenge caused a real sensation. Moiseyevich Kagan, soviet delegate on the committee, specifically named Portugal, Italy and Germany as the offenders and called for an investigation. It is believed that if Russia is not satisfied in this matter she will send airplanes and other war material to the Spanish government.

Kagan's communication made the direct charges that German airplanes reached the Spanish rebels from Germany, that poison gas reached the rebels from Italy, and that Portugal permitted its frontier to be used by the rebels.

Spanish Fascists pushed their lines so closely around Madrid that they called on the government to surrender the capital immediately and thus save it from a destructive bombardment. An airplane fleet showered the city with circulars telling the citizens that further resistance was useless. One of the most threatening of General Franco's advances was directed at Aranjuez, whose capture would cut off Madrid's food supply from the Mediterranean.

The government claimed that an army of loyalist miners had fought its way to the center of Oviedo against the desperate resistance of the rebel defenders.

Gen. Francisco Franco, chief of the insurgents, decreed a Fascist dictatorship and created a "junta of state" which will govern subject to his will. In his first statement of policy, Franco assured workers they would be "protected against the ills of capitalism and that steps would be taken to regulate favorable working hours."

SIX months ago the Latter Day Saints church—otherwise the Mormons—inaugurated a program to make every able bodied member self-supporting by October 1. In the great tabernacle at Salt Lake City Heber J. Grant, president of the church, told an audience of thousands that the plan had succeeded and that the drive had taken all the needy members off public relief. The church has consistently opposed "pay without work." In reading his report President Grant took occasion to criticize the Townsend pension plan and government control of crops, and he warned the members to avoid "political entanglements."

Under the church relief drive, land was leased and the needy provided with implements for tilling. Women groups have made clothes and bedding. Members have contributed the financial equivalent of two meals monthly to a special fund.

In scattered storehouses, Mr. Grant reported, supplies have been laid up in generous quantities for distribution among the needy who helped produce them.

Under the program, the speaker declares, "the curse of idleness would be done away with, the evils of a dole abolished, and independence, thrift, and self-respect will be once more established amongst our people."

AS THE time for the expiration of the Washington naval treaty draws nearer, the utterances of Secretary of the Navy Swanson take on more and more the nature of sharp warnings to Japan not to get too gay in the Pacific. In a press conference the other day he said:

"Fortifications are intended to answer fortifications. One menace must be met by another menace."

And he gave notice that the navy should be ready to do the necessary meeting.

About the same time the State department was studying a proposition, made to it and to Japan by Great Britain, for an extension of the treaty pledge of the three nations not to build new fortifications or naval bases in certain of their Pacific possessions. In Tokyo it was said the government might agree to this provided certain changes were made giving Japan "fairer" treatment in the light of an altered international situation.

ACCUSED of complicity in the plot against Dictator Stalin for which 16 prominent Russians were executed in August, Karl Radek, brilliant journalist, is under arrest and in danger of losing his life. He disappeared just after the executions of the others, but was caught a few days ago.

In his last article, published in the official newspaper Izvestia, Radek confessed his unfaithfulness to the Communist party, but defended himself with a vitriolic attack on Trotsky and claimed he had "expiated" his sins by foiling Trotsky's attempted sabotage of the Stalin regime.

KURT BJORKVALL, Swedish aviator, made an attempt to fly alone from New York to Stockholm. Thirty-two hours after the start he was picked up from the ocean about one hundred miles off the coast of Ireland. Supposedly he had run short of fuel. The rescue was made by a French trawler. The plane was badly damaged and was abandoned.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE C. B. KENNEMER of Montgomery, Ala., issued an order halting collection in Alabama of a one per cent payroll tax to finance the unemployment program. The result, it is expected, will be a clear cut test of the validity of the New Deal's social security act, for lawyers had no doubt the case would be carried to the United States Supreme court. The order was granted the Gulf States Steel corporation of Gadsden, Ala., on a plea that the unemployment insurance program, operated in co-operation with the federal government, violates both state and federal constitutions.

JESSE ISADOR STRAUS, merchant prince and, until his resignation last August, American ambassador to France, passed away in his New York home at the age of sixty-four. The immediate cause of death was pneumonia, but Mr. Straus had been in ill health for some time, this being the reason for his retirement from the ambassadorship.

Graduating from Harvard in 1893, Mr. Straus began work as a bank clerk. In 1896 he obtained employment with R. H. Macy & Co., big New York department store, and by 1919 was its president, holding that position until he was given the Paris post by President Roosevelt in 1933. He was a Democrat and was a member of the board of overseers of Harvard and of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. He maintained a country estate at Mount Kisco, N. Y., as well as a city apartment.

FOLLOWING the example set by France and other countries, the Italian cabinet voted to devalue the lira, setting its value at approximately 52 cents, as compared with the latest previous figure of 76 cents. The cabinet also let it be known that it would take action to prevent rent and price increases; and it voted a new 5 per cent capital levy to which property owners are obliged to subscribe to the extent of 5 per cent of their wealth.

The gold value of the lira was placed at 4.677 grams of gold for each 100 lire. Gold reserves of the Bank of Italy will be revalued on the basis of the new lira with the surplus to be placed at the disposition of the treasury.

FRANCE may be on the verge of a civil war between Communists and Fascists comparable to the terrible conflict in Spain. In Paris desperate fighting already has begun. The Reds, numbering many thousands, and the nationalists, under orders from Col. Francois de la Rocque whose Croix de Feu organization was disbanded by the government, undertook rival demonstrations; and the result was a day-long series of street battles in which hundreds were wounded. Order was finally restored for the time being by a force of 12,000 republican guards and police.

In London, also, there was a big riot in which a hundred persons were injured. Sir Oswald Mosley's Black Shirts, a Fascist organization, planned a parade but Communists and Socialists numbering 100,000 were determined to prevent it and battled with a big force of east end police to get at their enemies. The authorities forbade the parade as scheduled but the opposing mobs got together in various localities and fought desperately.

RESIDENTS of Frankfort, Ky., dropped work and politics for three days and, with thousands of guests, celebrated the sesquicentennial of their pretty city. A pioneer touch was given the affair by the arrival of many families from other parts of Kentucky in horse-drawn vehicles and on horseback. There were historical parades and services, an old-fashioned burgoe feast, and a formal banquet at which addresses were delivered by Admiral Hugh Rodman of the navy and Governor Chandler of Kentucky.

PRINCE ERNST VON STARHEMBERG of Austria ousted from the Fascist Heimwehr or home guard Maj. Emil Fey, once his trusted lieutenant, and thereby stirred up quite a fuss in Vienna. It was reported that Premier Mussolini of Italy had taken a hand in the quarrel by demanding that Chancellor Schuschnigg give complete control of the heimwehr to Von Starhemberg.

The prince declared in a public document that Fey's conduct at the time of the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss never was satisfactorily explained. The major, enraged, challenged the prince to a duel, but dueling is illegal in Austria.

THREE complaints were filed by the federal trade commission under the Robinson-Patman act, naming five concerns, launching the first move to test its powers under this far-reaching legislation which forbids the granting or receiving by merchandisers of discriminatory price discounts in interstate commerce.

The complaints named Montgomery Ward and Company, Inc.; Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation, Chicago; Shefford Cheese company, Inc., Syracuse, N. Y.; Bird and Son, Inc., and Bird Flour Covering Sales corporation, East Walpole, Mass.

Landon Pledges Farm Security

Wants Economy of Plenty, Not Scarcity; Promises Drouth Aid.

DES MOINES, Iowa.—"I believe the American farmer should be a lord on his own farm," Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas told a capacity crowd at the State Fair grounds here, in a speech that was a complete assertion of his belief in the economics of plenty, as opposed to the Roosevelt administration's economics of scarcity.

Gov. Landon's solution of what he termed a "national problem" and not simply a "farm problem" was founded directly upon the Republican party's platform. He pledged himself to support of the family type farm and to cash benefit payments limited to the production level of such a farm, to give agriculture an equal footing with industries protected by the tariff. He promised to take care of farmers hit by drouth.

He committed himself to the fulfillment of all contracts made with farmers by the present administration. He promised to call upon the statesmen of both parties to work with agricultural leaders in the preparation of new legislation, if he is elected. And going beyond the bounds of the platform, he advocated the fullest possible development of crop insurance.

Pledges Benefit Payments.

"All the farmer asks," said Gov. Landon, "is that his income be on a parity with the rest of the nation, that he may enjoy the same standard of life, that his home be made secure, and that he be able to build up a reserve for the future."

"I know that these aims cannot be realized overnight. Miracles are no more common in Washington than they are in Des Moines. To get a real solution we must have a well-rounded program."

"If I am elected," Gov. Landon continued, "I shall fulfill all outstanding obligations made by the present administration with the American farmer. By this I mean that those who have carried out their end of the bargain will receive the checks due them."

"Those of our farmers hard hit by the drouth will be generously provided for until they can raise a crop. This means the continuation of relief checks."

Would Offset Foreign Competition.

Farmers producing a normally exportable surplus of such staple products as hogs, wheat, cotton and tobacco are handicapped by tariff protections which are effective only when there is a shortage, Gov. Landon said.

"The Republican party," declared Gov. Landon, "proposes to offset these disadvantages by the payment of cash benefits. These cash benefits will be limited to the production level of the family type farm."

"As part of the plan for removing the depression effect of surpluses I shall propose an amendment to the federal warehousing act so that reserves of feed, such as corn, can be carried on the farm."

"Under this amendment the farmer who stores his grain on the farm, in such a way as to make it insurable, will be entitled to a federal warehouse receipt. He will then be eligible to borrow from any banking agency. He will enjoy the same credit facilities as are available to the owners of grain stored in terminal markets. The grain would be stored on the farm, ready for use or sale at any time the farmer cares to take up the loan."

Suggests Crop Insurance.

Gov. Landon then took up the matter of crop insurance, upon which Kansas Republican farm leaders have been working for some time. "We realize that there are difficulties," he said. "But insurance companies are writing policies today covering risks that they did not consider feasible a few years ago."

Here Gov. Landon declared that he could not agree with a policy like that of the AAA, which attempts permanent control of American agriculture from Washington. "I cannot agree with the President," he said. "I believe the American farmer should be a lord on his own farm."

He charged that the administration, after four years, was still without a workable plan for agriculture. "It's right back where it started from!" he said. "Soil conservation—real conservation—is a subject close to my heart."

Gov. Landon reminded his listeners that two years ago he had suggested to the Roosevelt administration a comprehensive program of joint federal and state action, but that it had not been adopted.

Gov. Landon said the country's 35 billion dollar debt under President Roosevelt "can be paid only by taxation if this is to remain an honest government. Taxes add to the cost of everything and the farmer is so situated that he cannot escape their penalty. Further, the taxes reduce the ability of the consumer to buy the products of the farm. The Republican party proposes to put an end to the present waste and extravagance."

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—Several years ago I expressed in these columns the conviction that one thing America needed was a congress which would cease attempting to amend the law of supply and demand. The observation was made in the midst of the most depressed economic conditions that modern times had known and it brought down upon my head a vast amount of criticism. Readers wrote me at length about the stupidity that I had displayed by making such a statement.

Reference to that circumstance is made here at this time, because it is apropos again. It is apropos because we are in a political campaign out of which will come either the re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt or the election of Governor Landon of Kansas. The results of this political campaign are going to hinge to a considerable extent on the attitude of the farmers of this country and if there is one segment of the American economic structure to whom the law of supply and demand means more than to another, it is to the farmers.

Now, Democratic spokesmen are going about the country talking about soil conservation, about relief for the farmers, about anything and everything that will give the farmers money.

Republican spokesmen are shouting and waving their arms with other propositions to aid the farmer. Some of them probably are workable, and if they are workable they must be considered constructive.

But the point I am trying to make is that in the case of either candidate, there is still too much of the idea of the superficial, of surface help, for agriculture. In other words, the programs still take into account some circumvention of the law of supply and demand. That statement is not wholly true of Governor Landon's farm program, but unless the New Dealers come forward with more than they have thus far advanced, I think it can be said their program offers nothing more than a continued raid on the Treasury of the United States with no plans at all for correcting underlying conditions.

There was one phase of Governor Landon's program, as advanced in speeches at Des Moines, Iowa and Minneapolis, Minn., that appealed to me. Brushing aside verbiage and detail, Governor Landon basically has in mind, apparently, a desire to get the government out of the farmer's hair. He seems convinced that there are many things which the farmers would like to do for themselves and will do for themselves if the machinery upon which they can operate is made available. He proposes, for example, to seek legislation that will enable the farmers to finance themselves through borrowing from commercial agencies, banks and trust companies, instead of from the government. With that I agree to the fullest. It means simply that farmers again can be masters of their own souls as well as the crops which they grow for it, puts them in a position to sell when they want to sell, without the necessity for asking permission from a bureaucrat in Washington. It means further that no bureaucrat in Washington can issue an order to that farmer that he must dispose of his stored crop.

It seems to me as well that anyone who analyzes the present regimentation of the farmers from Washington must recognize that which has always been true: Every time the government, which means politicians, attempts to mess into private business, that private business goes from bad to worse and it does not matter how bad it was when bureaucrats took hold. It will be worse thereafter.

I have been wondering, however, how far Mr. Landon will go in encouragement of the family type farms. You will remember that he spoke at length of family type farms in his Des Moines address. Personally, I feel that he hit upon a very important point. I think it is important because it strikes at the root of the farm problem.

In discussing help for the man who owns or wants to own a small farm, Governor Landon surely is proposing a program that will serve this nation well because no nation whose farms are widely owned by those who operate them can be headed toward fascism or communism. I do not know how the Governor as President will be able to put the federal government behind such a program, but it is to be assumed that he had definite ideas on the subject or he would not have boldly stated his position. My hope is that it can be done not with government money, but with money supplied from private institutions since there has been too much government competition with business of the nation already. Further, regretful as it is, the federal government has not and cannot have any function in that field for the reason that it inevitably leads further into politics, further into waste and the eventual destruction of the people whom the demagogues claim they are helping.

The reason I have advocated this action so strongly is the fact that there are too many tenant farmers in the United States now, for my opinion, that this nation can get on with the present trend. It is said, but it is true, that there are about forty per cent of our farms now operated by tenants. In other words, one out of less than three farms in the United States is worked by a man who does not own it.

Some information was made public the other day to the effect that 85 per cent of the newspapers of the country were supporting Governor Landon.

Landon as against President Roosevelt in this campaign. I do not know the actual percentage and I do not vouch for the figures I have reported to you. But of this I am certain: I believe that Governor Landon does have more editorial support than any presidential nominee has had in the last six campaigns, with the exception of President Roosevelt as a candidate in 1932.

It has been interesting to watch the various important independent newspapers as they have studied the two candidates this year and have reached conclusions as to the nominee they will support. I am not now referring to hide-bound Republican papers, nor to newspapers that could normally be expected to support the more conservative of the two candidates. I am thinking of independent or distinctly Democratic newspapers that have denounced their opposition to the Roosevelt cause. Let me mention a few of them: The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the Omaha World Herald, the Baltimore Sun, to mention only three.

There was a great newspaper, one of the greatest, that took a stand for President Roosevelt a few days ago. I refer to the New York Times.

No one can ever say that the New York Times ever failed to arrive at its conclusions without giving all factors concerned careful study. I am saying by this that the New York Times is honest and sincere. But I must say at the same time that the New York Times has a background as an institution and it has a clientele of readers for whom it speaks and its accession to the Roosevelt cause is a perfectly natural position for it to take. For years the New York Times has contended that America should participate to a greater extent in world affairs. It has contended, without exception, for policies of an internationalism with which a great many thinking people agree. Its view, concretely, appears to be that we cannot correct depression conditions unless the United States as a nation wholeheartedly moves in the circle of governments that rule Europe and Asia, especially in matters of an economic character.

I do not know what Governor Landon's pronouncements of foreign policy are going to be. But I have observed the policies that I have had the backing of the New York Times over a number of years and it seems to me that they result in greater benefits to a limited class than to the country as a whole. I am not a rabble rouser; I do not link the New York Times with the money-changers of Wall street and the demagogues describe them. It is just the perspective that I have gained of the whole picture since I have no axes to grind.

In the case of those newspapers that have turned against Mr. Roosevelt, there is to some extent a consideration of local interests, circumstances of concern to the communities which they serve, just as in the case of the New York Times.

The point is, however, that in the case of newspapers turning against Mr. Roosevelt, their new positions are predicated on what appears to me to be traditional American bases. That is to say, they are adhering to the principles which I believe to have been the foundation stones of American history. I have no quarrel with the attitude of a school of thought that believes we should engage further in international affairs than we have done. It is their conviction and they have a right to it. Yet, it is not mine.

I have said many times in these columns that I will support any proposition that is good for America as a whole; I have contended consistently for Americanism and the things which that means, and I have argued always for sound government.

"You lie. The girl can't be marrying you to get her grandfather's money, because you're not Stuart Graham, and you said yourself that the girl stated specifically that unless she married Graham and Graham only, on or before her birthday—today—she wouldn't get the money. Didn't you?"

"Well, Bryn said at last, 'not specifically. Not very specifically. I've read quite a few legal documents. . . this was a ferociously legal document, full with a lot of whereases and inasmuchases and party-of-the-second-parts, and that kind of thing. If Deborah's grandfather hadn't told me what it was that he intended, I wouldn't have been so sure.'"

"But is it ambiguous, after all the fuss? Why make a will like that and have it ambiguous? Can the girl get around it? Marry anybody at all and still get the money?"

"Well," Bryn admitted slowly, "no."

"No? No? But . . ."

"But we told her she could. I told her, Holworthy told her. Of course, if she's gone off and tried marrying anyone else, he'd have been forced to explain to her that on second reading . . . and so on."

"So," Tubby said with the manner of a talkative villain. . .

"Well," Bryn said for the third time, "what of it? It gets her out of a jam, doesn't it?"

"And you pay over a million of your own dollars at the end of a year, and she gives you fifty thousand for your services. Is that the way it works, no Sir Galahad?"

"Oh, I don't know. I think we can break the will. Holworthy's going to do his damndest. And, if he can't . . . well, the money means quite a bit to her. If—when you meet her you'll understand a little better, Tub."

"Humph," Tubby said.

They both stood up. Bryn looked at his watch. Ten minutes past nine. The grandfather clock choked, muffled, cleared its throat and gasped out that it was nine o'clock.

"Just the same," Tubby said explosively, shaking down his trouser leg. "Just the same, a year is too long. An ignorant, unsophisticated, dowdy backwoods country girl, who's never been anywhere or seen anything . . . milk and water, as uninteresting . . . after that!"

"SR!" Bryn said quickly. He took three steps toward the door at the end of the long room. Tubby stood up, too. The door was opening. A tall gentleman in black pushed the door open and held it. Behind him came Mr. Holworthy, his smile astonishingly serene and content. For years Mr. Holworthy had guarded Bryn's interests with the stern fidelity of the dragon who guarded the Golden Fleece; yet here he was, calm and undismayed, lending his arm and his moral support to this menace to Bryn's peace of mind, this girl who could wreck the most dire havoc in Bryn's affairs.

Tubby looked at the girl. He choked. Bryn stood without moving.

She was finishing a remark to Mr. Holworthy as she came through the door on his arm. Tubby did not hear the words, but he caught the melody of her voice. It was like that of a very young child, with an appealing break in it; one thought of small birds learning to sing, of hyacinths in spring gardens, of silver bells at twilight.

She was a very small girl as she stood hesitantly there. A very small girl, and she was dressed in white. Her skirt was so full that it stood around her in a circle, and only the tip of one tiny white slipper could be seen below it. She held it off the dusty carpet with the tips of careful fingers. The bodice was slim and pointed, and her waist could have been spanned by a man's two hands. There were little puffed sleeves below her white shoulders; the neck of the dress was low, and above it her throat was creamy white and soft. She had pinned rosebuds against it in front, and they lay pink and fragrant against her delicate flesh. Around her neck was a short strand of tiny pearls, and from her ears hung little round pearl drops. She looked like a miniature of one's grandmother, painted on her wedding day.

And her face?

A small white oval face, without a hint of color in the cheeks, but with a pair of the softest, reddest lips in the world. They were the kind of lips which look like the bud of a red rose when they say "no" and there was something about the firm little round chin which suggested that she might often say "no." Eyes like purple pansies, soft and velvety and dark; and as if eyes and lips and tiny hands in white lace mittens were not enough, her hair was of red gold, curling and breaking into a million misty tendrils around her face.

Tubby looked at Bryn. He drew a deep breath. "Noble Sir Galahad," he said under his breath, and moved forward to be presented.

Deborah was married and at home again. It was less than a week since she had gone away from the mountain, but it seemed a thousand years. She was so much older, now. She knew so much more than she had known a week ago that her thoughts were like the thoughts of a stranger; she looked at her old life and everything that had been in it with a stranger's eyes, clear, wondering, critical.

They were at luncheon, she and Grandmother and the man, seated at the long table in the middle of the vast shadowy dining room. The ceiling was high and supported by dark heavy oaken beams; at one end was a great fireplace with a carved oak mantelpiece and a stone hearth. The western wall was pierced by a row of six square casement windows shut with ivy. On the table stood the beautiful dalled old silver candelabra which had once been altar pieces in a cathedral; now they held the cheapest and most ordinary thick white candles whose flames wavered and burned coarsely and unevenly, and gave off a strong odor of impure wax.

Deborah sat up and moved the silver spoon beside her plate. She looked across at Grandmother. Grandmother was wearing her gray satin dress for the first time since Grandfather's death. Her white hair was pinned more loosely than usual, and fluffed out softly around her face. Her eyes were sparkling, alight, happy. There were pink in her cheeks, and a thread of it in her lips. It was as if she had come to life again, too. An hour ago, when they had come up the weed-grown drive, Grandmother had been standing at the side door, dressed from head to foot in the black she had worn for so long, with one . . . pressed to her heart in the old familiar gesture, and a look of fearful questioning in her eyes. The man had stopped the big battered-looking motor-car, and helped Deborah out. Grandmother had not looked at Deborah at all, except for one quick encompassing glance as If to make sure that she was still intact. Her eyes had gone to the man, and he had stood tall and straight and smiling that faint steady smile of his, waiting. The sun had glinted on his brown hair, and had made his brown skin look very clear and wholesome. Grandmother had looked into his eyes for a long time, a tense, silent, searching look; and then she had drawn a deep breath and put out her hand. She had smiled back at him, a fluttering relieved happy smile, and he had taken both her little white hands in his own. Oh, he was living up to his bargain.

He seemed to understand the situation at a glance and decide what it was he must do. It was perfect acting, and Deborah knew that she should have been grateful and appreciative, but instead she was angry. Angry because . . . well, because, watching him with Grandmother, she had realized suddenly that all the way up from San Francisco he had been acting with her, too, amusing her, making her laugh, telling her interesting things, thinking of her comfort, because it was part of the bargain. On the trip she had forgotten the bargain, the fact that he was going to be paid, and paid well, as he had expressed it, for giving their marriage the appearance of a happy one, the appearance of a real marriage between two young people who had . . . had fallen in love with each other at first sight.

Well, no matter; even if it was a little disconcerting to keep remembering what the true situation was. No harm had been done. She had been reserved through it all, and had not, she assured herself, allowed herself to be anything but impersonal with him. That was the note one must remember to strike: impersonality. Deborah straightened her shoulders and leaned back in her chair, calm, cool, in full control of herself.

Grandmother was gazing at him again as if she could scarcely take her eyes away. It was unfortunate that he meant so much to her if Grandmother approved of him too highly. It might make it difficult, at the end of the year, to explain why Deborah would be happier without him. And Grandmother in the meantime might think . . . she might expect . . . Deborah moved uneasily.

"My dear boy," Grandmother was saying, "I cannot see that there is the slightest resemblance between you and your father. You are so much taller than he was, so much more . . . perhaps I shouldn't have expected you to look like the Grahams. My husband told me years ago, after he had been East to see you, that you looked very much like your mother's people."

"Did he?" the man murmured. "A number of people have mentioned it. I never could see it myself."

"And I cannot see it," Grandmother said decidedly. "Your mother's people were very dark. Why, her two brothers were quite swarthy, and I never thought of her as being in the least fair, or clear-skinned. I never could understand . . . Grandmother said, and stopped. "But of course," she went on hastily, appalled at what she had almost said, "she was a very fine woman, my dear Stuart."

"I always believed so."

"Of course you did. Although you would scarcely remember her, I think?"

"He doesn't remember her at all," Deborah said quickly. "She died when he was only three, Grandmother. He couldn't possibly remember her."

THE WAY OF SALVATION.

By Rev. J. T. Horger.

ARTICLE NO. 1.

The fact the God has prepared a way and means of salvation is sufficient evidence that man is in a lost state. And as the Bible is the only source of knowledge touching man's ruined and lost condition, and the way of his restoration, we turn thereto for information.

And on the first pages of Gen., the first book of the Bible, we have the account of God's creation of the heavens, the earth and all things therein. And then God said, let us make man in our image—in our likeness. And let them have dominion over all things on the earth.

Then God planted a garden in Eden, and put the man therein; and there grew every tree that was pleasant to the sight and good for food; the tree of life was also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. God told the man that he might eat freely of every tree of the garden, except the tree of the knowledge of good and evil; saying, in the day thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die.

Now, let me say that Adam's environments and conditions in the Garden of Eden, is evidently God's outline of the probationary state of all men born into earth from Adam to the end of time; namely, we have the things for the support and happiness of our mortal life on the earth; and the tree of life stood for Christ and his provision for eternal life, in our midst; with the privilege to freely eat of the things that support mortal life; and also to take of the tree of life—the gospel of eternal life, in Christ. On the other hand, we are warned not to take of the forbidden fruit—sin, under the penalty of eternal separation from God, and doomed to a lake of eternal fire. Rev. 19:20; Also 20:15.

But the devil, called the serpent, appeared to the woman, whom God had taken from Adam's side, to be his helpmate; and said to her, God doth know that you will not die in the day you eat of the forbidden fruit, but ye shall be wise as gods, knowing good from evil. And the woman ate of the forbidden fruit, and gave Adam, and he ate thereof. Thus Eve, representing the race, went into sin; and Adam, typifying Christ, who being led by the race, was put on the cross, and there became "Sin for us, that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him."

But in the fall of Adam, his entire posterity became depraved by and through which we all, by the time we reach the years of accountability, "have sinned and come short of the glory of God"; and this we have become a sinner by NATURE and PRACTICE before God; "Having no hope, and without God, in the world."

But some think that the germs of sin in the human heart is of little significance further than it serves as a theological tenet in some doctrines; and they think that sin only exists in rare cases, and has no application in MY case. Truly solemn said, "Every way of a man is right in his own eyes; but the Lord pondereth the hearts." And God's word tells us "the heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked; who can know it? And the answer from heaven comes; 'I the Lord search the heart.' I try the reins, even to give unto every man according to his way, and according to the fruit of his doings." Jer. 17:10-10.

As I start to write this series of articles I remember there is much unbelief relative to the Bible teaching as to the supernatural experimental phase of salvation as taught in God's Word. Unbelief is in pulpits, in the pew, and in the current population abounds, but is most radical in the Socialistic teachings and especially the Communist propaganda, which is strictly atheistic, opposing even the common morals so essential to the well-being of a family or a nation. This is the False Prophet and the anti-Christ that the Scriptures tell us that shall deceive so many in the last days. And according to the current news, they go hand in hand throughout the length and breadth of the earth today. But all this unbelief and audacious wickedness, that follow in the wake thereof, does not change the truth of God's Word, or avert His judgment in the final day. Rev. 20:11-15.

THREE COLONIAL SHOWINGS.

Joe E. Brown is the world's most stupendous tractor salesman, according to First National's latest picture, "Earthworm Tractors", at the Colonial currently, which shows him turned out by his best customers, thrown down by his best gal (June Travis), and knocked for a loop by the most convulsing series of madcap mishaps that ever happened to a hapless hero. Guy Kibbee, Carol Hughes and Dick Foran are featured in the cast.

"Bengal Tiger", a Warner Bros. picturization of actual circus life and people, comes to the Colonial Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. It is said to be powerful in its realism and drama, yet simple and touching in its unusual romance, appealing to warm hearts everywhere. Just as real as the people is the glimpse the story gives of their lives, at work and away from it, day and night, winter and summer; a cross section of the real existence of this colorful clan that entertains the world in the big tents. The cast includes Barton MacLane, June Travis and Warren Hull.

In "Bullets or Ballots", the First National picture which shows at the Colonial next Wednesday and Thursday, Edward G. Robinson returns to the screen in a hard-boiled role, the like of which made him famous. His latest characterization is akin to that of "Little Caesar"—his first picture for First National—only this time he is on the side of the law. He plays the part of a New York detective who puts the finger on the high-up racketeers. Joan Blondell plays the feminine lead.

KERRVILLE TO ENTERTAIN EDITORS.

Approximately 250 newspaper men and their wives are expected to be in Kerrville October 16 and 17 for the fall meeting of the Heart of Texas Press Association.

Members of the South Texas regional press association have been extended a special invitation to attend the Kerrville convention.

Wendell Mayes of Brownwood, president of the Heart of Texas Press Association, has announced that the convention speakers will include William H. McCraw, Attorney General of Texas, and Lieutenant-Governor Walter F. Woodul.

Other addresses will be given by Rufus Higgs, publisher, Stephenville Empire-Tribune; H. H. Jackson, publisher, Coleman Democrat-Voice and president of the Texas Press Association; Marvin Hunter, publisher, Frontier Times, Bandera, and J. E. Grinstead, Kerrville novelist and former newspaper publisher.

A golf tournament and a football game between Schreiner Institute and St. Edward's University will be entertainment features on the program.

HAEGELIN RECEIVES ARMY PROMOTION.

Recent announcements of promotions in the Officers Reserve Corps of the United States Army issued by the War Department, lists the name of H. B. Haegelin, of San Diego, Texas, who has been promoted to Captain of Infantry in the organized reserves.

Promotions in the Reserve Corps are won by tours of active duty and by completion of extension courses. Captain Haegelin was first commissioned in the Reserve Corps as a second lieutenant upon graduation from Texas A. & M. College in 1929.

The promotion to Captain was won as soon as the required time in grade had been served.

Captain Haegelin in civilian life is county agent of Duvan county and he and Mrs. Haegelin make their home in San Diego.—Duval County Facts.

SAN ANTONIO LIVESTOCK.

Monday, Oct. 12, 1936.

(Federal-State Market News Service)

The cattle and calf market at San Antonio Monday was fairly active on early rounds with calves and light weight yearlings selling steady to strong as compared with last week's closing averages. Trading on later rounds, however, was slow and weak. Stockers were also strong with cow stuff and grass steers holding around steady. Weighty bulls sold a little weaker. Estimated receipts consisted of 500 cattle and 700 calves.

Good grade fat calves and light weight yearlings cashed mostly at $5.00 to $5.50 with several lots up to $5.75 and above. Medium grades sold mostly at $4.25 to $5.00 with "rannies" down to $3.50 and below. Common to medium grade cows brought $3.25 to $4.00 with fat kinds up to $4.25 and $4.50. Cutters grades sold mostly at $2.75 to $3.25 with shears lower. Weighty bulls were scarce and sold mostly at $4.25 down to $3.50 for light weights, odd head above. Stocker calves and yearlings were in demand at $4.50 to $5.50 with odd lots steer calves up to $5.75. Matured grass steers sold mostly at $5.00 to $6.00 with a few above.

Hogs, 400 head. The market was fairly active with price levels around steady with last week's close. A top of $9.75 was paid early by all interests. Good to choice 180 to 250 pound offerings cashed at $9.50 to $9.75. Best 140 to 160 pound butchers, $8.00 to $9.00; 160 to 180 pounds, $9.00 to $9.75; 260 to 300 pounds, $9.25 to $9.75. Packing sows mostly $8.00 to $8.50.

Sheep, 100 head; goats, none. Most offerings were of plain quality and were unsold late. Demand is very slow on thin kinds. No fat sheep or lambs were offered.

Business comes to the man who has established himself and gained a reputation for square dealing. But his business can be doubled and trebled by consistent advertising.

The majority of advertising is done by means of printing, and the man who fails to employ printing in some form to advertise his business is simply letting trade slip through his fingers.

Every line of printing you use in your business speaks of you to your customers and prospects; even your letter-heads and envelopes.

Use good printing, and use it constantly and consistently. It will prove to be your best friend in any business, be it large or small.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

ALTHOUGH pineapple juice is ordinarily chilled in the tin before serving, many persons suffering with intestinal disorders, find the juice more to their liking if it is warmed, or slightly heated, especially when drunk at breakfast time.
The chilled juice is much preferred
as an eye opener, or an appetizer, but an excellent hot beverage for winter evenings is mulled pineapple juice. Here is the recipe: Tie an inch of stick cinnamon; 3 whole cloves; 1/4 teaspoon ground allspice; 1/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg in a small piece of cheesecloth. Add to one quart of Hawaiian pineapple juice and bring to boiling point.
Add a little salt, and serve with crackers and cheese.

Brazil nuts add nutriment and distinctive new flavor to countless other foods. As appetizers and as an integral ingredient in entrees, salads, breads, buns and in numerous desserts, these Amazon jungle nuts are winning wide favor. Every few weeks during the year fresh stocks arrive in this country. Ideal for summer use, they keep indefinitely in a refrigerator or other cool place. Shelled nuts should be kept tightly covered. Brazil nuts may be used raw or roasted, whole, chopped, sliced or ground. t

A GIFT

from the Indians

WE ARE indebted to the Indians for many things. One of the chief of these is corn. For hundreds, perhaps thousands of years before Columbus took the grains of corn which were to spread its cultivation all over the world, the Indians had cultivated and eaten this important food.

Just as we prize corn most highly, so did the Indians. Each year the six Indian tribes of the Iroquois family celebrated Green Corn Festival—four days of feast and thanksgiving to the Great Spirit who had given them corn.

To Show Our Gratitude

Housewives, today, carry on the festival, in a different way, however. Probably four days each week they serve corn in one way or another—roasting ears, corn puddings, corn salads, corn muffins, or in some other delightful form. Canners have varied the styles of canning corn in order to suit the tastes and convenience of housewives.

For example, when corn was first canned it was almost all "cream style"—the rich creamy mixture which is especially fine for making cream soups, soufflés, corn puddings and chowders. In recent years, however, in order to meet the demand for new ways to serve corn, the "whole kernel" corn became available in cans.
This corn is picked at "roasting ear" stage and the entire kernel is cut off and remains separate when in the can. It is particularly suited for sautéing, corn cakes, scalloped dishes, for stuffing peppers, for fritters, or for use in making a dressing for fowl. In 1934 one-fifth of the total pack of white corn was in this style.*

TEXAS LAW CLEAR ON SPLI BALLOT.

Courts Hold Pledge is not Binding to National Candidates.

Austin, Texas, Oct. 8, 1935.—
Democratic primary pledge is binding only as to nominees who have participated in the primary and as to national candidates, it has been pointed out here by a group of prominent Texas lawyers who are confined with Jeffersonian Democrats.
Among the lawyers concurring in this opinion are W. P. Hamblen of Houston, J. D. Wheeler and Elmer H.
Stahl of San Antonio, H. C. Haggerty of Galveston.

The lawyers went a step further and cited Article 281 of the Texas Civil Statutes of Texas which defines the method of voting a ticket in a general election.
"Voters participating in the Democratic Primaries," the lawyers declare in their written opinion, "are even morally bound to support the Democratic national nominee." The pledge on the ballot says, "I am Democrat and pledge myself to support the nominees of this primary."
As electors for the national election were not voted on at the Democratic primary, but will be voted on at the General Election, November 4, the primary and voters can split their tickets in the general election without even a qualm of conscience or breaking a pledge.

The large number of school pupils who had planned to leave Thursday by special train for the Centennial at Dallas, were greatly disappointed to learn Wednesday that the pleasure trip had to be foregone as sufficient cars were unable to be secured by the authorities arranging the excursion. However, a telephone conversation with Mr. V. F. Caulkins, the Southern Pacific agent at D'Hanis, revealed that efforts are being made to secure transportation through the S. P. line, the time to be announced later. Students desiring further information are to get in touch with their local superintendents. If the S. P. line finds it possible to make up a special train, the towns of Uvalde, Sabinal, Knippa, D'Hanis and Hondo will benefit by the arrangement. The first tour was scheduled by another railway line, with the starting point at San Antonio.

About July 15th, and immediately following the first rain after harvesting his oat crop Mr. John E. Neumann planted some of his oat stubble as follows: two acres in soy beans, two acres in Sudan grass and two acres in hegar. The rabbits destroyed the beans before they attained much growth, the Sudan has matured an abundant seed crop and a fine but somewhat late hegar crop is coming on. These crops received one plowing and one harrowing and were practically made before it rained on them after planting.

Pecans---Large and Growing Industry of Texas

Pictured above, world's oldest pecan tree, as designated by U. S. Department of Agriculture, and variously estimated as being in excess of 500 years old. Insets, R. The pecan tree, most magnificent of the perennial nut-bearing trees, exemplifies the grandeur of time and nature's handiwork, and in the practical sense now contributes wealth and industry to a greater resourceful Texas.

Quickened to a realization of the commercial value of pecan culture is R. Bruce Brough of San Antonio, owner and developer of Tex-La Pecan Orchards, world's largest pecan plantation. Brough spreads before the thoughtful student of economy an array of facts and figures, that prove the increasing uses and perpetual worth of the enlarged Texas pecan plantings and production.

The astonishing story of GULFPRIDE

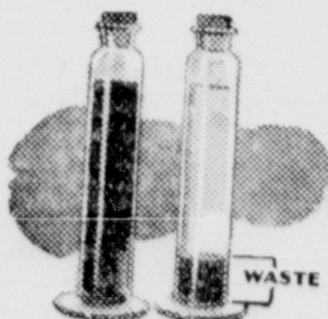

THE WORLD'S FINEST MOTOR OIL

THE results you get from GULFPRIDE OIL can be obtained from no other motor oil in the world!

For only GULFPRIDE is made from choice Pennsylvania crude... refined to equal the best motor oils on the market... and then further refined by Gulf's exclusive Alchlor process.

This process was developed by Gulf after 15 years of scientific research—the kind of painstaking research that is behind every Gulf product.

Read the facts below. Then replace your summer-worn oil with GULFPRIDE now. At all Gulf dealers.

(Left)
BEATING THE BEST. No other process refines oil so thoroughly as Gulf's Alchlor process. When a blend of 6 of the finest Pennsylvania motor oils—already highly refined—was put through this process, 20% waste came out. Proof that the Alchlor process makes GULFPRIDE finer than the finest other Pennsylvania oils.

A GULFPRIDE USER drove from Bennington, Vt. to Portland, Ore., averaging 400 miles a day. He did not add a single drop of oil. An unusual record, yes. But expect GULFPRIDE to take you farther before you need a quart than any other oil you ever used.

EASTERN AIR LINES' Great Silver Fleet uses GULFPRIDE only in every one of its 21 mighty planes. No other oil will do, because no other oil can match GULFPRIDE—the world's finest motor oil—for safety, stamina, and low cost per mile!

ALAMO HEIGHTS BLANKS OWLS 23-0.

The Alamo Heights Mules defeated the Owls Friday by a score of 23-0. The Mules sported a shifty, hard-running backfield and a crushing line of no mean ability. This defeat was the fourth for the Owls in the last five grid season, and was the Mules' fourth straight victory this year.

The Mules had the advantage of playing on their home grounds at Howard Field, and made eleven first downs to six for Hondo and outplayed the Owls in every department of the game.

The first quarter, spent in punting, passed scoreless, but not without action for Abel Gonzales, frisky quarterback, got away on a 52-yard punt return gallop. A pass over the goal-line from Gonzales to Bill Randolph, end, netted Heights its first touchdown in the second quarter. It was followed by another score and a field goal by Betts, blocking half. Betts ran 51 yards for the score and then kicked the extra point.

The Owls, however, never let down, and kept Alamo Heights on their toes throughout the game, although the closest threat was to the Mules' 12-yard line in the last seconds of play, brought about after two successive passes. The Owls failed to get nearer than the 50-yard mark in the first half.

The blocking of Betts was excellent during the whole game, particularly during the Mules' drive down the field in the second quarter.

Gonzales was the principal ground-gainer for Heights, and threw several passes which were good for gains, as well.

Hartung and Williams showed up well for the Owls, and Windrow was the chief ground-gainer due to the fact that Capt. Rothe was out of the game because of injuries.

Pearsall 31, Eagle Pass 13.
Uvalde 0, Rocksprings 0.
Carrizo Springs 13, Sabinal 0.

The Owls' next game will be played on Barry Field in Smithville where they will meet the Smithville Tigers. This will be played next Friday night, the game beginning at 8:00 P. M. The admission prices will be as follows: Adults 50c, High School students 25c, Grade students 15c. As many students as possible can should attend this game which will probably be one of the Owls' toughest encounters this season. OWLS— OWL STAFF TO HAVE BON-FIRE.

THE OWL Staff is sponsoring a big bon-fire! The place has not been definitely decided upon, but it will probably be in the park in front of Dr. Meyer's home. This invitation is open to all high school students and teachers. Touching the high spots—we are going to give yells, sing all kinds of songs, have speeches, and wind things up with a shirt-tail parade. (Everyone must walk, no cars will be allowed.) The purpose of this bonfire is to touch up the school spirit and to show the football boys that we're behind them strong, and want to help them show Uvalde what Hondo can do. This bonfire will take place on Wednesday night, October 21, at 7:30 P. M., the Wednesday before the Hondo-Uvalde football game.

Turn out for this, all of you H. H. S. students, and make this one of the biggest and most enthusiastic events of the year.

F. F. A. MEETING.

The Hondo Chapter of Future Farmers held its regular meeting Wednesday, October 9.

Mr. McDowell, an honorary member, told the chapter about the P. T. A. Carnival.

The Chapter decided to again raffle off a pig on November 11th. A guessing contest was decided as a way to raise money for the Chapter. In this contest a chicken is fed some corn, chances are sold to guess how many grains of corn the chicken will eat. The first guessing contest was held Saturday, October 10. Mr. Willie Muennink won the chicken. The chicken ate 24 grains of corn.

Mr. Muennink gave the chicken back to the Chapter. The Chapter made $3.98 on this contest. A dance will be sponsored by the Chapter on Saturday, October 24. Only High School students and F. F. A. members will be eligible to attend. The admission for the dance will be 75c per couple and $1 for single.

The main event of the meeting was the initiation of Green Hands to Future Farmers. The Future Farmer is the boy who is in his second year of Vocational Agriculture and has met certain qualifications.

A series of three surveys on projects will be in each report of THE OWL. This report will be on different boys' projects and intentions for the future. The first three are as follows:

Marvin Grell's project: Marvin's project consists of two pigs and a dairy cow. Marvin's pigs now weigh 45 lbs. apiece. He intends to develop his pigs for pork production. With his dairy cow he intends to keep an accurate record of the milk produced and increase his dairy herd. Marvin intends to have his pigs in market condition by January 1. His dairy animal will be fresh in December. He intends to continue his project work after he finishes school.

Bonard Rothe's project: Bonard has two calves, eight cows, eight calves, and one fall garden. His two calves he intends to fatten for show purposes. With the eight cows and eight calves he is going to breed and develop a larger herd. Bonard is going to plant a fall garden for home use.

J. W. Martin's project: John W. has two pigs as a project. John's pigs weigh about forty pounds apiece. John W. intends to fatten his pigs for home pork production.

OWLS— H. E. GIRLS VISIT BAKERY.

Monday the Home Economics girls enjoyed a visit to the bakery for the purpose of learning something of the process of making bread. Most of us had never seen anything of this sort before and were very enthusiastic.

Mr. Rath explained the functions of his machinery, and how he prepared, baked, and wrapped his bread. He told of the difference of working with his modern equipment and that of doing everything by hand.

His is one of the most modern and best equipped bakeries of all small towns near here. We should be very proud of this fact.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to Mr. Rath for his interesting explanations and for a most enjoyable time.

OWLS— INFORMATION ON THE ROUND TRIP TO THE CENTENNIAL, DALLAS, TEXAS, OCT. 15-18.

The price for a round trip ticket to the Texas Centennial has been reduced from $3.80 to $2.90. This reduction should enable practically everyone to make the trip.

Friday morning. Cars will be parked within a hundred yards of the Fair Grounds. Occupants will be allowed to sleep on the train. The American Express Tours offer for $2.50: four meals, a night's lodging, admission to special showing of Cavalcade, and two days admission to the grounds.

One adult for each five children will be allowed as chaperones and may receive the same $2.50 rate for admission, meals, etc.

Lecturer: "Now, is there anyone here who would like to ask a question?"

Someone in the Audience: "Yeah. What time is it?"—Grit.

A JOY-RIDE DINNER PARTY.

By Juliette Frazier.

An original, yet simple way to entertain a few friends, is to invite them to a "Joy-Ride Dinner". The invitations, ornamented with water color sketches of automobiles, should state that the party would assemble at your home at 6:30 on a stated evening. The guests having arrived, dinner should be announced by the blowing of an automobile horn. Each chair at the table should represent an automobile, bearing a license number and having a toy horn tied to its back with long ribbons of crepe paper in harmony with the color scheme.

Places should be indicated by sign boards cut from light cardboard, and folded to stand in an upright position. Place on names and notices to motorists will add greatly to the amusement. For instance, signs for Mr. Gray, Miss Brown, Miss Smith could read: "Gray's Crossing—Go Slow"; "Brownsville—Stop"; "Smithport—Blow Horn".

A highway of silver gray colored crepe paper edged with moss, small twigs, and tiny ferns can be arranged to run around the table. The other decorations require only the unique distinction of being edible. These may consist of one large and several small candy automobiles, together with a number of pedestrian figures—small candy dolls. The feet of the pedestrians are glued to a square of cardboard covered with gray paper to match the roadway. Place the largest automobile in the center of the table, inside of the circle formed by "the highway". The small automobiles should be placed along "the highway". If automobiles made of sugar are not obtainable, the glass variety filled with small candies will do, and the pedestrians may be small china dolls.

The menu, or "Ride", should read as follows: 1. Starters; 2. Lubricators; 3. Accelerators; 4. Carburetors; 5. Armatures; 6. Cylinders; 7. Coolers; 8. Finishers.

Dishes served at these courses may be: 1. Fruit cocktail; 2. Consomme; 3. Baked fillets of salmon or halibut; 4. Chicken fricasse; 5. Golden Glow salad; 6. Coconut cookies; 7. Chocolate ice cream; 8. Coffee.

TENNIS COURTS REPAIRED.

The tennis courts have been repaired, and are in a fine shape. Although some are seen playing tennis every evening, there should be a greater enthusiasm among all of those who know how to play this game to use these splendid courts. Those who intend to "go out" for tennis in the spring in order to compete in the County Meet should be practicing now instead of waiting for spring to come.

OWLS— AND THE TIP.

A guest of a small Southern States hotel was awakened early one morning by a knock on his door.

"What is it?" he called drowsily, without getting up.

"A telegram, boss," came a Negro's voice.

"Well, can't you push it under the door without waking me up so early?"

"No, suh; it's on a tray."—Tit-Bits.

OWLS— S. S. CLUB MEETS.

The Strictly Soph Club met at the home of Sis Meyer Thursday afternoon. After several business matters were discussed and a party had been planned, delicious refreshments consisting of a fruit salad, chicken sandwiches, cocoa and candy were served to Helen Burgin, Evelyn Ruth Dawson, Susie Muennink, Elizabeth Reynolds, and the hostess, Sis Meyer.

OWLS— FOURTH GRADE.

Don Peters is just back from the Centennial. He has told us many interesting things about his trip.

Jim Amberson, Roland Eckhart, Gladys Bohlen, Ashbel Gilliam, Toadie Beal, Ben Graff, Grace Woolls, and Hal Hunter are planning to make the trip to Dallas Thursday.

OWLS— RE-WISED.

Under the weeping willow trees,
The village speed trap stands,
The natives laugh to see such sport
And the constable rubs his hands.

Edwin S. Rutledge, Editor of the Kenton (Ohio) News-Republican, says:

"Mr. Merchant, the newspapers from the larger cities near your community are coming into the homes of your own customers these days with advertising columns bursting with announcements of real values."

"They are drawing the dollars out of the pockets of the people who should be purchasing from you. These city merchants know their advertisements in their city newspapers will bring results or they wouldn't be spending good, hard-earned money for that advertising."

"Your own values are just as outstanding—and even more so—than the values being offered your customers by the city merchants. If you are to get the dollars that are rightfully yours, you will have to inform your customers of this fact in big, bold headlines in your home town newspaper, and then back up headlines up with the price tags on your merchandise."

"If you will go to your home town newspaper advertising man he will help you with your advertising problems and make your advertising just as appealing to your customers as the 'big city' advertising is."

"Local advertising that comes in from the outside, but you, Mr. Merchant, have to keep that lead by properly utilizing the home town newspaper with careful umns consistently and with careful attention to the preparing of copy."

The Anvil Herald Advertising Department is a "merchant of publicity service"; hence this example of what we preach.

What builds Hondo builds your business, and vice versa.

Efficient ADVERTISING is an essential feature of successful SELLING and is so acknowledged by all successful business men everywhere.

COSMIC FLOWER.

O flower, I know why you are dear:
Where you are, a soul is near.

You are the garment dropped to free
A soul intent on discovery.

You are stained with travail on earth
Thru conscious struggle for re-birth.

The state of the soul you disclose:
King or queen, the garment's a rose.

Here is gathered a varied bouquet—
Peasant or queen may visit to-day.

O flower, the brightest garment that ties

The soul of the earth to the soul of the skies!

TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO.

On Saturday, October 17, 1908, there appeared at D'Hanis the first copy of THE D'HANIS NEWS, a newspaper that for years was published weekly in our town. It was established by J. M. McLeese, its first editor, who was succeeded by several others before it was bought by Fletcher Davis of Hondo in the late summer or early fall of 1914. In December 1923 the newspaper—then called THE D'HANIS STAR—was discontinued by Mr. Davis, after having published it a little more than nine years. Incidentally, the old Washington printing press that was used throughout this paper's career, is now in the Frontier Times Museum at Banderita. It was probably the last Washington hand press used in issuing a newspaper in Southwest Texas.

Among the relics displayed at the Fort Lincoln celebration last May was a copy of the first number of THE D'HANIS NEWS, lent to the exhibit by Hilmar J. Koch, who received it in 1928 from his uncle, Peter J. Koch, of San Antonio. From that copy we have been permitted to glean the following items of 28 years ago:

School Opens Monday. The public school will open here Monday, with Prof. H. Sheffey Rolter and wife of San Antonio, as teachers, and as far as we can learn the board ought to be congratulated upon securing such an efficient staff.

New School Opened. The new Saint Anthony's School opened Thursday, and the beautiful building is certainly a structure to be proud of, not only for our little city but for a city of ten times its size, and when it is considered that the entire cost was collected by popular subscription, it's simply marvelous.

Stole a Violin. A section hand at this place was arrested by Constable Hearne last Monday and taken to Hondo, where a hearing was given him before Judge Haass on a charge of stealing a violin from Stephen Luckenbach at the S. P. pump house Saturday night. The prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge and was given a fine of ten dollars and costs, which amounted in all to 33 dollars and 5 cents, and also five days in jail.

Twenty-Five Cars Amount of Shipping for One Week. The output from the D'Hanis Depot for the week ending Oct. 3 was 12 cars, and incoming cars numbered 13, making a total of 25 cars.

They were loaded as follows: Incoming—1 car vehicles, 3 cars commercial lignite, 1 car live stock, 1 car beer and ice, 2 cars lumber, 2 cars building sand, and 2 cars flour. Outward—6 cars brick, 2 cars cotton seed, and 4 cars cotton.

Personals. Mrs. M. Koch and Miss R. Sauter visited the Alamo City Sunday. The Misses E. and T. Koch are visiting in San Antonio this week.

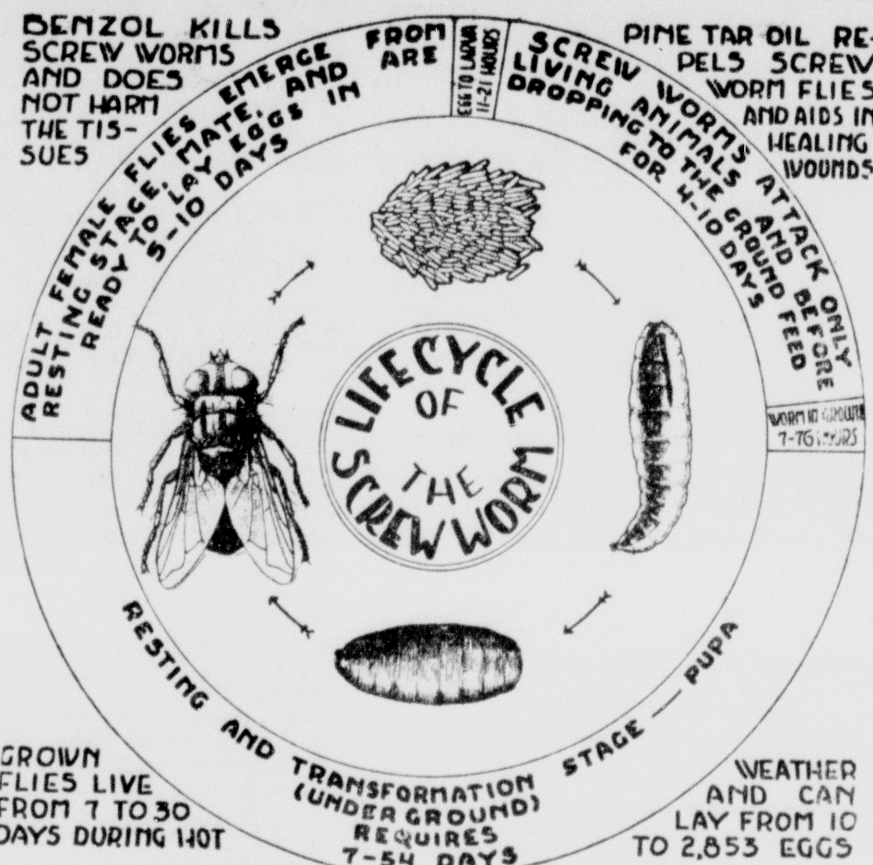

Alex Tondre is back at the brick yard again, he says there isn't any place like D'Hanis for him.

It seems that "Side-burns" are the latest decree of fashion in our town. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Reilly are spending a few days with friends in San Antonio.

The S. P. Railroad has been running two trains daily since the fair opened to accommodate the thousands of visitors.

Messrs. Dr. Rahm, Willie Finger, and Louis Garteiser took in the sights at the International Fair last Thursday and Friday.

John Rieber has been very ill during the past week but under the care of Dr. Rahm he is much improved as

LIFE CYCLE OF THE SCREW WORM FLY.

Flies have four stages in their life cycle. The adult flies mate and lay eggs, and the eggs hatch into maggots or the worm stage. The maggot, after a period of feeding and growth, transforms into a resting stage called the pupal stage and from this emerges the adult fly. Thus we have in the life of a fly four stages—the fly, the egg, the maggot and the pupa.

The adult female screw worm fly finds a living animal that has a wound, preferably a fresh wound. The fly lays masses of creamy white eggs on the edge of the wound. Ten to 400 eggs are placed in a single mass, and these eggs hatch in from 11 to 21 hours.

As soon as the young maggots are hatched, they enter the wound and begin feeding. As the maggots continue to feed, they shed their skin several times, growing larger each time this process occurs. In from 4 to 10 days the maggots complete their development and begin migrating from the wound.

The maggots drop to the ground and enter the soil, penetrating to a depth of one to several inches. At this point the maggot apparently becomes inactive, but actually a great change is taking place. The maggot contracts, becomes rigid and the skin turns brown and hardens to a leather-like texture. This is the pupal or resting stage, and within the pupal case the insect is transforming into an adult fly. In from 7 to 14 days the process is complete. During the overwintering period the insect sometimes spends as long as 54 days in the pupal stage. The adult fly breaks through the pupal case, comes up through the soil and rests upon some twig or plant until its wings have dried and expanded and it is ready to fly away.

For five or ten days the adult flies feed upon various substances, the males and females mate, and then the cycle is ready to repeat itself. This cycle is completed within an average of 24 days.

The screw worm fly will attack any cut, wound or abrasion in livestock, fowls, domestic pets, man or other warm-blooded animals. It does not, however, deposit its eggs on carcasses or in any place other than a wound on a living animal. It will be seen readily that the screw worm fly population can be greatly reduced if wounds are treated and the screw worms killed. Each female screw worm fly is capable of laying from 2,500 to 2,853 eggs. Thus each maggot that is killed in the wound means the death also of an infinite number of potential pests.

A screw worm case can be recognized readily by the watery discharge of blood and blood serum which flows from the wound and from the foul odor associated with it. Flies frequently lay eggs around infested wounds and thus worms of several sizes are sometimes found in the same wound. Screw worms feed with their head ends buried in the wound and with their tail ends turned out. Breathing occurs through the exposed or posterior end of the maggot. This habit makes it easier to reach the breathing apparatus of the maggot with the fumes of benzol, which the United States Department of Agriculture recommends for use in killing screw worms in wounds. Following this treatment, the wound should be coated with pine tar oil, specific gravity 1.665, to hasten healing of the wound and aid in repelling further attacks from the fly.

THE SONG.

This is a song for wee, wild creatures,
The squirrel in the orchard and the field mouse in the glen;
They have no schools, no teachers,
And they lack the lore of men,
But they know the West wind's story
The rabbit in the brush lot and the dun deer in the wood;
When Autumn spreads its glory
Every line is understood.
This is a song for small shy people,
The pheasant in the tall grass and the swallow in the sky;
They have no church, no steeple,
But their prayers are wafted high;
And the God of fur and feather
Will remember hawk and swallow and cardinal and jay,
When his whole world stands together
Upon his Judgment Day.
